

"SPEEDER" TYSON UP IN COURT FOR AUTO KILLING

Young Man Long Regarded as Dangerous Motormaniac in Connecticut.

John Hamilton Tyson, the young millionaire grandson of the late Commodore George Tyson, was arraigned for pleading in the Court of General Sessions to-day on an indictment charging him with manslaughter in the second degree. Tyson, on Feb. 25 last, speeding down Amsterdam avenue in his automobile ran down and killed Orla Gunderson, launchman of the Columbia Yacht Club, and escaped in the darkness.

Later he confessed to a young actress with whom he was infatuated. She kept the secret until Tyson told her he was going to get married when she informed the authorities, and the indictment was found upon evidence secured by detectives.

Tyson entered a plea of not guilty to-day. He was fixed at $10,000, and he was ordered to appear for trial on Sept. 8. The bail bond was signed by Alfred R. Starr, a dentist of No. 10 East Ninety-second street.

Tyson, it has been learned by the District Attorney, has long been regarded as a dangerous motormaniac in and about Greenwich, Conn., where he spends the summer at the home of his grandmother. His appearance along the roads in his car was the signal for everybody else to turn out.

He had been warned by the police of Stamford to keep out of that city, as there was ample evidence that he had been responsible for several automobile tragedies while riding in his Isotta car, which was not capable of a lower speed than twenty-five miles an hour.

Furthermore, so bitter was public feeling against the reckless driver that the vigilance league was started in Riverside for the purpose of running the young man and his "flying death" out of town.

By two of the foremost residents of Riverside, where Tyson lives, he had been threatened with death if he caused any injury to members of their respective families.

The first threat against Tyson was delivered by J. B. S. Oddie, father of Orville Oddie, both prominent yachtsmen.

Miss Oddie, daughter of the family, had narrowly missed being killed by Tyson's machine while driving along a Connecticut highway. The margin by which her life was saved was so narrow that her father, enraged at the recklessness of Tyson, made a journey to the young man's home in Riverside, where he lives with his grandmother.

Mr. Oddie called him out and told him that if any member of his family was injured by his racing car he (Mr. Oddie) would shoot and kill him.

The elder Mr. Montgomery, of Riverside, directed a similar threat against Tyson four weeks ago. He was driving with his children in a runabout machine when Tyson came flying along the road at express speed, missing the Montgomery car by not more than an inch.

Both Mr. Montgomery and Mr. Oddie, before personally threatening Tyson, went to the local police and presented complaints against him. He was hailed to court in Greenwich and admitted that his racing, which won the Briarcliff, was not capable of a slower speed than twenty-five miles an hour. He was advised then to keep out of the county unless he wanted to get into serious trouble.

Many Narrow Escapes.

From many sources reports were received of narrow escapes from the Tyson car. It was recalled that in August last he was indirectly responsible for a tragedy at Darien in which Mr. and Mrs. Paul McCormick lost their lives.

Tyson was racing with McCormick, whom he had met on the road, without regard for the safety of others. In the course of the race he drove with such furious speed as to force the other machine off the road to avoid a carriage and into a telegraph pole. Two occupants of the car were killed.

All these happenings served to stir up the bitterest sort of sentiment against Tyson, and at the time of his arrest, following his betrayal by a young actress, a vigilance committee was organizing in Riverside to deal with him.

KERMIT ROOSEVELT
OFF FOR BIG GAME

President's Son to Get Points in the West for African Hunt With His Father.

OYSTER BAY, Sept. 1.—Kermit Roosevelt, who will accompany his father on the hunting expedition into the wilds of Africa, left Oyster Bay to-day for a hunt of his own in the Northwest. He will join John Greenway, the President's friend and former Rough Rider, who is now in charge of the United States Steel Corporation's mines in the Lower Mesaba range, and together they will hunt over the big game regions of the Northwest.

Under the tutelage of Mr. Greenway, Kermit is expected to learn the ways of the hunter, to take care of himself in a tight corner, and to return with an experience qualifying him for lions and other dangerous game which may be hunted in company with his father.

NO TRANSFERS IS NEW THREAT BY B. R. T. SYSTEM

Annual Report Shows Tremendous Increase, but President Pleads Poverty.

Although the Brooklyn Rapid Transit on the showing of its annual report had the biggest year in its history, the submission of the report to-day is attended by a threat to abolish transfers. President Winter, head of the waterlogged system, declares that through the use of transfers the average gross return per passenger has been decreasing until it is dangerously near the cost of transportation.

There were 61,154,897 passengers carried by the B. R. T. during the year ending June 30, 1908, an increase of 3,345,530 passengers over the preceding year. The average number of cars operated daily was 2,208, an increase over the preceding year of 52 per cent. The average gross earnings per passenger, according to the report, was 3.67 cents, and the average cost per passenger carried was 2.25 cents, leaving an average, net, per passenger, of 1.42 cents, from which must be taken all charges other than for operation.

Profit Too Small.

On the transfer question President Winter says:

"For some years past, through mergers, leases and other forms of combination, segregated lines have been coming together into large systems, unquestionably to the very great advantage of public travel, whatever may be said concerning the movement in other respects. Encouraged by the rapidly increasing demand for more and better local transportation, and the assumption that the gross rate of 6 cents for the carrier could be substantially preserved, enormous expenditures have been made in the improvement of existing facilities and creation of still more costly means of transit, and these vastly enhanced conveniences turned to public use without increase in the rate of fare."

"On the contrary, through the use of transfers the average gross return per passenger has been decreasing until the cost of transportation supported per capita and the amount received for it have come unpleasantly close to each other. It is obvious that these conditions cannot continue without serious results alike to the public and the transportation companies."

"If private capital is to be the means of further transit development in this city the investor must first be assured of the safety of his money and a reasonable return thereon. The case is exceptional where this can be given on the present margin between cost and after transfer division, amount realized per passenger carried."

"The welfare of the public to the extent that it is dependent upon local transportation, as well as that of the corporations which are expected to supply it, would be promoted by the mutual recognition of a situation, the untowardly discouraging aspect of which in its bearings on the question of future development must become evident to those who will give it patient and intelligent examination."

$6,000,000 to Construction.

The system spent last year on construction, $6,476,300, an increase of $773,772.99 over the preceding year. Included in the increase was the cost of one hundred new elevated cars and one hundred closed surface cars.

The report is summarized by the company as follows:

"The gross earnings from operation for the year are $18,500,565.55, an increase of $18,573.46 over the year ending June 30, 1907, and making the largest year in the history of the system. The total income for the fiscal year was $18,500,565.55, an increase of $17,732.58 over the preceding year. An increase in the taxes and fixed charges of the company, $68,610.00 over the preceding year, shows a net income of $18,431,955.55, from which is deducted for depreciation of securities, discount on bonds sold, etc., all amounting to $1,244,631. This leaves a gross surplus of the year from earnings of $17,187,324.55, an increase of $119,432.42 over June 30, 1907."

MANIAC STABS HIMSELF.

John Pandolfo is Paying Second Visit to Bellevue Insane Ward.

John Pandolfo went crazy at his home, No. 104 Bayard street, at 4:30 A. M. to-day, and cut his throat with a razor, while members of his family were trying to control him. The wound, though long, was not deep, and after he had been attended by a physician he was taken to Tombs Court, where the Magistrate was asked to commit him to the insane pavilion at Bellevue.

Pandolfo became suddenly insane two years ago, and then tried to murder his family. He was cured after treatment in an asylum.
